International Cargo Logistics

- Shipping roses from Kenya to Holland
 - 30 people and organizations were involved in processing the container on its 34-day journey
 - 200 different communications and interactions between supply chain participants
 - 80 well-defined bottlenecks in the supply chain including lost paperwork causing a 10-day port delay
 - The solution was to create an electronic shipping platform by digitizing all documents using blockchain technology with the aim of increasing transparency and security among all trading partners, reducing fraud and errors, and most importantly, decreasing time product is spent in transit.
