Charter of member objectives and responsibilities.

ARTSA-I Aims

The ARTSA Institute was established in 2019 to respond to the challenge of change. The world as we know it is changing rapidly. Governments are responding but often slower than change itself. The Institute aims to:

- Influence the debate around framing policies for the industry
- Provide evidence-based data and research to influence policy decisions.
- Provide guidance to industry and stakeholders to improve the safety, productivity, and environmental impacts of the industry

As an ARTSA-I member, either Life or Associate, there are objectives and responsibilities of membership.

ARTSA-I membership objectives, from the Rules of the Association;

ARTSA Institute (ARTSA-i) is the peak body for Heavy Vehicle Transport research in Australia. It represents long standing industry participants who want to put back their knowledge and expertise into influencing the realms of future policy settings.

The objects of the Association are:

1. Independently explore ways in which evolutions in Heavy Vehicle Transport can be promoted, better understood and communicated. ~ Providing insights on behalf of the heavy vehicle industry that will promote sensible policy change
2. Promoting positive societal outcomes for the Road Transport industry. Provide Policy makers with insights and narrative to promote safety, sustainability and fleet modernization.
3. Using an independent data driven approach to research significant topics.
4. Inform industry and stakeholders about safety, productivity and environmental initiatives via reports and newsletters
5. Sharing the knowledge and skills of our members by engaging with project sponsors.
6. Identify projects and seek access to research and development funding.
7. Hold public functions and communication release events to explain the results of investigations

ARTSA-I membership responsibilities;

As an ARTSA Member, you would be expected to actively participate in the following:

1. Attend our meetings in person or virtually,
2. Attend our seminars and/or conferences and help with the delivery of the event,
3. Provide input into the design of our events and other activities,
4. Advocate, endorse and promote the activities of ARTSA,
5. Help recruit new ARTSA members,
6. Support ARTSA projects and activities,
7. Bring fresh, creative ideas to the table and provide input on all issues raised,
8. Work towards further developing ARTSA and its mission to improve the freight transport industry
9. Actively participate through networking.
